Product description Latex soothers "cherry shape and anatomical shape" (SARO). Type/number of model: Model 4559. Description: These are two types of soothers, one type with the teat in the shape of a cherry and the other type with an anatomically shaped teat. Sold in a blister containing two units (two soothers with cherry shape or two with anatomical teat). One side of the packaging states: from the age of 6 months.

Risk type Choking
Health risk / other

Risk description The teat broke easily during the traction test, producing small pieces of latex that could asphyxiate a baby. Given that both natural rubber latex and synthetic latex are available, and that natural rubber produces the majority of allergic reactions in persons sensitive to rubber (or latex), an absence of this indication could result in sensitive persons suffering allergic reactions. These products do not comply with the relevant European Standard.
