Product Motorcycles

Brand BMW

EC-type approval/model Model R1200GS, type R12

Product description Concerns motorcycles built between December 2002 and October 2007.

Risk type Injuries

Risk description The product poses a risk of injuries because in the event of inappropriate handling, such as pulling roughly, hitting objects while manoeuvring, or if the motorcycle falls over, the hand protector on the handlebar controls can twist. It could then touch the handbrake or clutch control causing brake or clutch malfunction. In addition, if the twisted hand protector lightly touches and operates the handbrake control, the brake linings may touch the brake disc and the resulting heat generation would cause the brake pressure to build up which could slow down the front wheel, even so far as to block it. Three incidents reported.

Product Motorcycle frame

Brand KAWASAKI

EC-type approval/model ZZR1400 (ZX1400A6/7F and ZX1400B6/7F).

Product description The recall affects 2006 and 2007 year models with serial numbers: 1. ZX1400A6/7F : JKBZXT40AAA000004 to JKBZXT40AAA026070 ;2. ZX1400B6/7F : JKBZXT40ABA000069 to JKBZXT40ABA026279.

Risk type Injuries

Risk description The product poses a risk of injuries because the frame may crack at the lower rear cross-member. The lower rear engine mount has a threaded collar designed to eliminate clearance between the frame and the engine cases before the engine mounting bolt is installed and tightened. On the affected units, the collar was tightened excessively which created stress across the lower cross-member. This cross-member, which carries significant rear suspension loads, can therefore crack as a result of heavy suspension loading, such as when encountering potholes or rough surfaces. Failure of the frame could result in the rear of the motorcycle collapsing and lead to an accident.
