Product description Lithium ion battery used with various Hewlett-Packard and Compaq notebook. The notebook computers themselves are not subject to the recall action. All affected packs will have a CT coding that includes the following sequences where ^ can be any letter A-Z or number 0-9. Not all packs that include one of these sequences are subject to the recall. Verification of the complete code by HP is required 62940^^AXV^^^, 65033^^B7U^^^, 65033^^B7V^^^, 65033BGU^^^, 65035^^B7U^^^, 65035^^B7V^^^, 65035^^BGU^^^, 65035BGV^^^ 67059^^V8U^^^, 67059^^V8V^^^ There are three different battery pack designs, each of which is compatible with a subset of the listed notebook computers. The date code is embedded in a code printed on an adhesive label affixed to the inner surface of the battery pack located as shown in the images provided per section 11. (The battery pack must be removed from the notebook computer to allow access to this label.). The vast majority of affected battery packs will have been included with the models of notebook computer to which they belonged. These notebook computers were last placed on the market around March 2008, and it is very likely that all packaging will since have been discarded. Images of the notebook computer packaging are no longer available.

Product Radio transmitter for model aircraft

Brand Spektrum (transmitter);E-flite (kit); Hangar 9 (kit).

Type / number of model 1. DX6i Transmitter (part numbers SPM6600E and SPM6601E), 2. E-flite Blade 400 Helicopter (part numbers EFLH1400IM1 and EFLH1400IM2), 3. E-flite T34 Mentor 25e PTS (part number EFL4800), 4. Hangar 9 P-51 Mustang Mk2 PTS (part number HAN4425). Scope: all models containing the DX6i transmitter with the following date codes, sold since September 2008: 807E, 808E, 809E, 810E, 811E, 812E and 901E including those ending in "US", "UK" and "DE".

Product description The Spektrum DX6i radio transmitters are used to control model aeroplanes and helicopters. "Spektrum DX6i" is printed on the front of the transmitters. The transmitters are sold individually or as part of three different ready-to-fly model aircraft.

Risk type Injuries

Risk description The product poses a risk of injuries because of a fault with the electrical connections within the DX6i transmitter unit, between the control stick and potentiometers, which can cause model aeroplanes and helicopters they control to fall while in flight. The propellers can also turn unexpectedly causing injury to the user or persons standing too close to the aircraft. The product does not comply with the R&TTE Directive 1999/5/EC. Two incidents reported.
